PAID FOR HOSPITAL PLACES.

BUYERS SEEK NOW TO REVOKE THE SYDENHAM CHARTER

Petition the State Charities Board, and Allege Also That the Place Was Badly Run-The Guggenheim Family Had Planned to Endow the Institution.

Charges have been made to the State Board of Charities against the trustees and managers of the Sydenham Best Grad-uate Course and Hospital at 339 cast 116th street by four physicians who were for-merly members of the medical staff, but who now ask that the charter berevoked.

The complainants, who are represented by the law firm of Levy & Unger, are Dr. Salo Cohn of 1857 Madison avenue, Dr. Louis Lichtschein of 140 Eas Eighty-ninth street, Dr. A. L. Goldwater of 84 West 119th street and Dr. B. M. Feldman of 7 West

One of the charges is that the institution has been conducted as a sort of get-rich-quick concern, and the physicians who joined the staff had to py a certain amount down for the privilege and in addition a

Rates had gone up, apprently, when Dr. Feld-man joined, for that complainant declares that he was taxe $430 in cash for a place in the department of gynæcology, and that he agreed to pa $40 a month as long as he ne petition then gives sixteen specifica tias in support of the allegations that the pspital has been conducted in "an unsaniry, unlawful, negligent and improper manher." Some of them follow: Cases of tuberculosis were kept in wards with other patients, contrary to the rules of the Health Department.

Unlawful autopsies without the consent of the family of deceased patients.

No dead house is maintained in connection with said hospital, and bodies of patients are left in wards with other patients for twenty-

Mingling of sexes in the wards.

The petition continues: Remonstrances being made against this condition and other grounds of complaint, and it being necessary for the purpose of the persons controlling said hospital to create vacancies on the medical staff, in order to secure to said Spiegelberg the privilege of making up the said medical staff, as aforemade against your petitioners, who, without hearing, were removed from the medical staff of the hospital.

During the period from November, 1902, until the present time, there had been made constant changes in the medical staff, after the trustees had received compensation for appointment thereto. In some instances, when the physician who had been appointed to such medical staff would threaten to sue for the money so obtained from him and expose the institution, the amount of such money was refunded to such physician out of the funds of the hospital. The Spiegelberg referred to in the petition is said to be W. L. Spiegelberg of 134 West Seventy-eighth street, a relative of Meyer Guggenheim, the rich smelting man. His purpose in joining the board of trustees, it appears, was entirely laudable, and there is no accusation that he had any knowledge of the alleged sale of places on the staff, or of other abuses. It seems that the Guggenheim family sought to endow and name a hospital. Rather than incorporate a new one, they hit upon the plan of taking up the charter of an institution already in existence, and the Sydenham Hospital was selected for that purpose. The institution was incorporated in June, 1892, and licensed on Feb. 26, 1903, under a law passed in 1899. It received no State aid or public money, but because of the license granted by the State Board of Charities is subject to its inspection and

From the time it was incorporated until November, 1902, the institution apparently was not engaged in any hospital or dispensary work, as contemplated in its charter, but continued as an inactive corporation, with a limited directorate, among whom were Gen. James R. O'Beirne, Alexander Boller, W. W. Bell, W.W. Bell, Jr., Frank Kissing, Dr. Franklin Soper, E. J. Pickworth and Dr. J. J. E. Maher. As to the change in management, the petition

That in and prior to said month of November, 1902, for their private gain and profit and for the promotion of their professional practice and private interests, certain persons did enter into negotiations with the officers and persons then controlling the said cor-poration, with the result that at a special meeting thereof, held Nov. 26, 1902, at 223 West Twenty-third street, the said persons so being in negotiation with said hospital corporation were elected to membership therein, to wit: Dr. Isaac Levin, Mr. Fred-erick W. West, Mr. M. Gold, Dr. I. Goldstein, Mr. Samuel Rosenthal, Dr. P. A. Levene Morris Hellquit and your petitioners, Louis Lichtschein and Dr. Salo Cohn; and at which said meeting Messrs. Boller, Pickworth, J. B. Bell, W. W. Bell, Jr., and Dr. Maher resigned as members of the said corporation.

That thereafter the newly elected board of trustees did for a money consideration sell to physicians positions upon the medical staff of such hospital corporation. Dr. Feldman said last night that when he joined the staff of the hospital he gave the money with the understanding that it was to be applied to the maintenance of the institution. He went into the thing, he said, in order to get the benefit in his practice which accrues to a physician from a hospital connection. For the money he paid, he said, he had the privilege of erecting a tablet in the hospital to his father and mother. After that he said, at a meeting of the executive committee of the trustees Dr. Robert Kunitzer, the chairman, announced that the sum of $3,000 would have to be raised for running expenses. Of this sum

Dr. Feldman was expected to pay $600, Dr. Max Rosenthal, $500, and Dr. Goldwater, $500. They were told that when the lay board, of which Mr. Spellenburg is the moving spirit, took charge that there would be no trouble in raising money. Two months after the lay board came in, Dr. Feldman as, heys discovered that nothing had been done toward raising funds and that he and the two other doctors who had been sed refused to pay. At the last moment, however, Dr. Rosenthal changed his mind and handed over $500 to the executive committee. Next, he says, the board called on Dr. Cohn and Dr. Lichtschein for contributions. but both refused to pay. Shortly afterward Dr. Kunitzer told the four physicians who had refused to contribute that they had been dismissed. When asked for the reason, Dr. Feldman said, Dr. Kunitzer declared that there would be no way o finding out until certain members of the board returned from Europe.

Dr. Herman Jarecky, secretary of the hospital, said last night that Dr. Cohn and Dr. Lichtschein were members of the original board and that Dr. Feldman and Dr. Goldwater came in on the distinct understanding that it was a charitable institution and that the money they paid was to help along the cause. He said that they were dismissed for good and sufficient cause and that the management courted the fullest investigation. The institution, he added, was under heavy expenses, as there were now twentyeight patients in the hospital, and its dispensary was carrying on a big work.

He then conducted THE SUN reporter through the hospital. To all outward appearances it would compare favorably with any hospital in the city. It is well lighted and well ventilated and all the rooms are scrupulously clean. The hospital is not mentioned in any of the medical directories, but the New York Charities directory says it is "for the treatment of medical and surgical diseases infectious or contagious diseases excepted Free to the worthy indigent sick, irrespective of race, color or creed. The hospital is controlled by eleven directors and supported by the members' fees, pay of patients and voluntary contributions."

The dispensary at 347 East 118th street, the above authority says, "is for the free treatment of the worthy sick and poor out patients, irrespective of creed and nationality, who are unable to pay for either physician or medicine."

DEAN HOLE DEAD. English Clergyman Lectured in This Country Ten Years Ago.

The Very Rev. S. Reynolds Hole, Dean of Rochester Cathedral, who died at Rochester, England, yesterday, is well remembered in this city, partly because of his visit here on a lecturing tour ten years ago and partly because of the articles which he wrote about this country after his return to England. Everybody here who met Dean Hole declared him to be a most likable sort of a man, and at a dinner given in his honor at the Lotos Club he lived up to that famous organization's standard of what a guest should be in wit and geni-

But as a public lecturer, heralded as one of England's greatest humorists, he did not fully satisfy his American audiences. He realized that and did not like it. Hence the uncomplimentary things which he wrote about the country when he got away wrote about the country when he got away from it.

His press agent here referred to Dean Hole as "the favorite and honored guest of that brilliant galaxy of wits and artists that have made Punch so famous, and the wittiest and most brilliant of them all." Perhaps that was the trouble with the Dean's American lecture tour. He read a great many jokes from Punch on the platform and generally recited a long poem of his own which had been printed in England's funny paper.

The Dean was born in 1819 in Caunton, Nottinghamshire, where his ancestors had been men of substance for 300 years. He was graduated from Brasenose College, Oxford, in 1844, and was ordained in the same year. Six years later he was made a vicar and in 1887 he became the Dean of Rochester Cathedral.

Dean Hole was almost as well known as a gardener, a writer of books on gardening and as a lover of sports as a churchman. One of his books which became famous was "A Book About Roses; How to Grow and Show Them." In 1858 he organized

One of his books which became famous was "A Book About Roses; How to Grow

the first rose show ever held in England.
The Dean had no patience with the extremist in temperance reform. He said once on that subject:
"When any one can accuse me of overindulgence I will allow them to talk to me;
but no man has the right, on any grounds, indulgence I will allow them to talk to me; but no man has the right, on any grounds. Christian or moral, to demand that I shall give up the legitimate use of any article because he cannot, or will not, use it without abuse. As well might it be said that a man is bound to eschew the honorable estate of marriage and adopt the celibacy of the monk because the libertine allows his licentious passions to run riot."

Mrs. Kate Billings Noel died Wednesday last and funeral services were held for her on Friday at Trinity Chapel. Mrs. Noel was the divorced wife of Pierre Noel and the daughter of Mrs. Abram Wakeman of was the divorced wife of Pierre Noel and the daughter of Mrs. Abram Wakeman of this city. She was introduced to society about eighteen years ago, and her beauty attracted immediate attention when she appeared in private theatricals and tableaux with Mrs. James Brown Potter. After several years in society she was married to Pierre Noel of a well known French family. They lived in West Twentieth street, but the marriage was not happy and a divorce followed after a few years. Mrs. Noel cultivated her voice, and three years ago she decided to attempt a professional career. She sang in concerts at the Newport Casino and later appeared as Lola in a performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana" given by the Castle Square Opera Company at the Broadway Theatre. She soon retired into private life. She was 39.

The Rev. Dr. Maurice G. Hansen of the Dutch Reformed Church died on Friday at his home, 214 Park place, Brooklyn, in his sixtyninth year. He came from Holland with his parents when a boy. He had been in the ministry over forty years. His longest pastorate which extended over nearly thirteen years, being in the Reformed Church in Gravesend. His other charges were at Coxsackie-onthe-Hudson and at Amsterdam, N. Y. Owing to ill health he was forced to give up pastoral work eighteen months ago. He was the author of several works, including "History of the Reformed Church in the Retherlands." A wife survives him.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL PAPERS GONE.

Gov. Warfield and Baltimore and Ohio Officials in Search of Important Documents in Baltimore Find Nothing Where They Were Supposed to Be.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27.-President Frank . Furst of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company will welcome information as to he whereabouts of the tin box of the company stored with care in the vaults of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

Accompanied by representatives of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and of Gov. Warfield, Mr. Furst visited the vaults of the Safe Deposit company to-day to ascertain the contents of the strongbox. As the key had been lost it was necessary to have the outer lock picked. As the door swung open Mr. Furst looked in, but saw only a hole in the wall. There was no strongbox there, and the receptacle or drawer in which it had been placed for safe keeping was missing also. The trustees expected a rich find.

The Governor was notified soon after the offer came from the Western Maryland Railroad to buy the canal that the Safe Deposit and Trust Company had in its vaults a box placed there subject to the order of the President of the canal company, and as the State had not paid any rental for years the safe deposit company officials asked the State to pay the charges and take away its property.

When the Baltimore and Ohio people learned of the existence of the box they were at once interested. Being the trustees for the bondholders, they believed they had a prior claim to anything valuable appertaining to the canal, and so they asked the State officials to open the box. Now all concerned are more anxious than ever to know what became of the box.

The safe deposit company's keeper has a record of all patrons of the institu-

The safe deposit company's keeper has a record of all patrons of the institution and keeps tab on their coming and going. The books show that the vauit was last opened on Oct. 29, 1888, but further investigation must be made to ascertain the name of the opener.

At the time the door was last opened Elihu E. Jackson was Governor, L. Victor Baughman Comptroller and Stevenson Archer treasurer. It was fifteen months afterward that the Archer defalcation was uncovered. Whether the missing box had any connection with the embezzling State Treasurer is yet to be determined. No one is in position to tell just what kind of securities there were in the box.

If, as was supposed, the State had certificates of stock showing its ownership of the canal and these were in the missing box, the taker could not hope to benefit, for they were not negotiable without the State's consent and there is no record of transfer.

The affair is shrouded in mystery and the officials are endeavoring to solve it.

The safe deposit company has promised to furnish Mr. Furst with the name of the man who last opened and personally walked off with the box.

Cable Parted From Car on Which They Were Riding With Four Carboys-Shockingly Injured by Crash, Besides

Being Burned-Safety Clutches Failed. Four men met a horrible death yesterday by the falling of a freight elevator in B. T. Babbitt's soap factory at 82 Washington street. They were riding from the ground floor to the top with eight carboys of muriatic acid, which is used in the manufacture of glycerine. Somewhere in the upper stories, one workman says it was at the third floor, the cable pulled out of the iron bushing by which it was attached to the top of the car, and the platform with its load of men and acid crashed down to the

The impact smashed every carboy to flinders, and the four workmen, with almost every bone in their bodies broken, were thrown into the fuming acid. The elevator, which was of the open platform kind and about nine feet square, ran in a shaft in the centre of the building. There is no casing around the shaft and the floor openings are guarded only by low gates. choking fumes of the acid rose from the basement in yellow clouds and spread through the building, driving the workmen to the windows. On the ground floor, however, the open doors made a draft inward, and in this protecting current of air Tony Trapp, who runs the freight elevator on the Washington street side of the building, ran out the training ship Topeka at Tompkinston street side of the building, ran out the ville.
